FIFTY YOUNG LADIES

ON THE NATIONAL THEATRE STAGE.

A "Republican" Reporter Among the Bloudes Demi-Blandes, and Brunettes-Trim and Shapely Figures-Preparations to Get a Good Seat To-Night.

The advertisement that fifty young ladies were wanted for the production of Kiralfy's grand spectacle of "Michael Strogoff" struck the eye of a succeptible attache of this valuable journal, and he determined to abridge the hours usually devoted to sleep and pay a visit to the National Theatre at ten o'clock Friday morning The wife of his bosom wondered why he wished to called at eight o'clock; why he was so long at his bath, and was so particularly sancious about his clean linen, and when he borrowed ten cents of her to get shaved she remarked, "What in the world is all this preparation for "" with the reply that he was obliged to interview a Senator on the President pro tempore question the scribe brushed to be leaves as a senator of the president protempore question the scribe brushed to be leaves as a senator of the president protempore question the scribe brushed to be leaves." up his last year's silk hat, and wended his way to the box office, where he met the affable manager, sem Kinsley, who looked as if he had made a mistake in getting up so early, but who said he

"MUST ATTEND TO THE GIRLS, YOU KNOW."
"Let's go round to the stage door," said Sam,
"and see how Parker is getting along." Now "and see how Parker is getting along." Now Parker, be it known, is the genius of the stage—the one whose authority is absolute. So in all matters of selecting a belief, Roman citizens, Russian peasants, or life guards, or supernumeraries of any description, Parker is the one to whom the applicants are always directed. When the knight of the pougli reached the single entrance he found Parker surrounded by seons of ladles, who had come in answer to the "ad." There were blondes, demi-blondes, and brunettes, young girls and old girls girls with jaunity hats and variegated feathers, and girls in poke bonnets, girls to corious attempts at stylish raiment, and girls in well-worn and rusty black. Some had bright and smiling faces and some countenances bore the marks of care and suffering. A singular thing, however, was that all were, so far as outward appearances word.

POSSESSED OF TRIM AND BRAPELY FIGURES One danned, with hair of that peculiar reddish-golden tinge that Tilian loved to paint, large bine eyes, and a complexion that many a society belle might envy, said, as she came to give her name: "I never thought to apply for employment such as this; but my buby has been sick, and until I can get back in office I must earn money in some war?"

"In what office were you employed?" asked THE "In what office were you employed?" asked THE REPUBLICAN.

She incuttoned a branch of the Government where a large number of ladies are employed, and said that her discharge was totally unexpected, as she had always tried to do her duty; but she supposed she had incurred the enmity of some of her associates because she declined to enter into some of their little amusements. She said she was consident that when she told her story to her Senator, whom she expected daily, she would at once be reinstated. This REPUBLICAN hoped she would, and as she dropped her black well and welled away with an easy, graceful movement he resolved that he would take

A PRONT SEAT FOR MONDAY NIGHT. In decided contrast with the ladylike appearance of this applicant was the next girl, with bold slack eyes and a self-conscious sir, who evidently lidn't understand the purpose for which slace if you will only give me twelve hours' notice," said she, "But, my dear young woman," said the amiable Parker," we don't want you to do speaking parts; we want you to dispeaking parts; we want you to dispeak and I know I'il make a good figure in the front row," replied she; "but then I can do speaking parts if it's necessary, and there are some lines I have been told I rectie as well as Mary Auderson," And she stalked off like a trugedy queen, in "one time and two motions," "Sor, are yet the man plat wants the girls?"

The rich [rish brogue was given in a voice too deep for a woman, and, on looking in the direction whence the sound proceeded, a big, brawny Irishman was seen holding on to the arm of a woman who seemed to be over flay if she was a year old. "What do you want?" said Parker, as the man elbowed his way up to him, shoving the woman ahead like a locomotive that is hitched to the rear of a train."

f a train.

"I want Bridget here toget a show fur to dance."

"Can she dance a pos smil?" asked Parker.

"Well, I don't know about that," replied the man,
but I do know she can flat dance like the divil
ad can work the best jig of ony one in the Disnelet!"

and can work the best jig of ony one in the bisthrict."

He was told it wasn't a jig dancer that was wanted, bit young hadles who could move gracefully through the terpsichorean mazes, and he was directed to Denny O'Neil as the man who would give a first-class jig woman a show.

The above are only some of the many heidents that to k place as the bright and sad faces came up to give their names—some with casy nonchalance, showing that they had been on similar errands before, and some timid and halling, hesitating, and yet scually needing the $1 per night that the nymphs of the ballet receive.

THE BEHERBEAL

Yesterday afternoon was fixed for a rehear-sal, and at three o'clock there were at least seventy-five women, of all ages and previous con-ditions, on the stage. Emile Kirally and Young America were engaged in selecting from this feminine battallon the number desired, and sorting them as to size. There were also numbers of young men about the stage entrance who were ambilious to effect a brief hour upon the stage, and We George R. Edesan, the stage manager of the THE RESTRAINAL. ambilious to stat a brief hour upon the stage, and Mr. George R. Edesen, the stage manager of the Kiralfys, was attending to them. The chosen ones were taught the dances and the surplus went home, some sorrowful and some only regretting that they had missed a "plonic." The rehearsal commenced, and up to the hour when the reporter had to leave for church the girls were still counting and datcing, and the young men were anx-iously waiting for the time when they could have the stage.

the opening exercises the president introduced Mr. Edward Humphrey, who for years has been an active worker in this club. He made an interesting address. The next speaker was Professor W. J. Boyd, who verified the fact that not only was he a singer, but an orator. He was followed by Mr. Christiancy and Judge J. J. Weed, who made a very interesting address, which was attentively listened to. Rev. C. W. Dennison offered a series of resolutions, the same which were adopted recently at a mass-meeting beld in Winchester, Va. In offering them he made some pertinent remarks on the liquor question. the opening exercises the president introduced Ordination of New Ministers. The Lutheran Church, corner Eleventh and H streets, was the scene of an impressive cere mony last evening on the occasion of the ordina-tion and licensing of a samber of ministers in accordance with the report of the Synod, which has been in session in this city during the past week been in session in this city during the past week. An instructive ordination sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Barclay, of Baltimore, after which the candidates for holy orders were addressed by Rev. Dr. Borner and formally licensed to preach. Revs. A. H. Buck, of Uppercoe, and A. Bell, of Reisterbann, Md., were ordained as ministers. Licensos were granted to Messra. T. S. Brown, Upton Hankey, and M. D. Gaver, of the Theological Seminary at Gettysburg. Fa., and the license of Professor G. V. Yonce, of the Frederick Female Seminary, was renewed for one year.

The American Red Cross An act of incorporation wasfiled in the Recorder's office on Saturday in the name of "The American Association of the Red Cross." The term of its existence is for twenty years. The manager the association are styled the executive board and consists of eleven members. The incorporators are Clara Barton, William Lawrence, Joseph K Barnes, A. S. Solomons, and Alex, Y. P. Garnett lis objects are principally to organize a system of mational relief for application in season of war perincipal, etc., and to collect and diffuse information for the advancement of sanitary science.

Reception to the Steuben Family. A meeting of prominent Germans of Washington, called at the instance of leading members of the Sharpshooters' Society, was held on Saturday evening at Cosmopolitan Hall to suggest proper steps to be taken for suitably receiving the descendants of Baron von Steuben, of Revolu-tionary fane, now en route to this country to par-ticipate in the Yorktown celebration. No definite programme has as yet been determined upon.

Yorktown Notes. Senator Johnston received yesterday a letter from General Hancock asking if a place could be made in the programme of the Yorktown celebration for a special military parade and re-view in hono of the French guesta. There is one day already set apart for a military perade, but General Bancock desires to have a more elaborate military display.

Assessments on Delinquent Banks. The Internal Revenue Bureau, in making assessments on delinquent banks, always gives the bank the benefit of any doubt that may exist. Thus was it with a Philadelphia bank which, as sessed for $20,000, has had the assessment annulled because of a doubt whether or not its officers had willfully evaded the law or had blundered through ignorance of its provisions. Sometimes it has happened that of two banks adjoining each other one will have been found to have avolded the law while the other has obeyed it to the letter. On Friday Mr. C. W. Moulion filed an exhaustive ar-gument in behalf of the banks, on the subject of call loans, before Commissioner Raum. That question, however, has already been decided by the Commissioner in favor of the banks.

History of the Growth of the Church of Bishop Quintard, of Tennessee, spoke extended by the people of Washington to the French and German guests of the Nation, who street, of the great work now going on in the Church visit the city en route to Yorktown Friday, October 14, promises to be worthy of the occasion, and wisit to England, where he preached frequently in the church it was essential to have a clear idea of what the church of Christ is. It is, in the first place, not a matter of human devisement. It is the body of Christ, and we, as members, are incorporated in that body. It would be easier for men to have made the world than the church. The Church of England is the one living branch of the primitive ten planted by Christ. The church was founded in England in Apostolic times. When Gregory sont Angustine to England to convert the Saxons, he found the church there in all its integrity. This integrity was known by the distinguishing features which have marked it in all agree, namely, its falls, sacraments, and ministry. The speaker then traced the struggles of the church through struggles of the church through

THE PURITAN REPORMATION, and said that the movement against bowing to the name of Christ resulted almost universally in denying the divinity of Christ. The Church finally became Puritanized of the eight thousand clergy, six thousand yeilding in matters of doctrine and church service to the influences of the loaves and fishes.
Half a century ago the original catholicity of the Church of England was resurrected by the Oxtord's divines. He then spoke of the growth of the church in this country, and said that in 1787
there was not a single bishop here that traced his power to the Bishop of Canterbury. In these days the church was to fear not Catholicism, but unbelief and rationalism. The Latin Christianity having lost its place, Angelican Christianity having lost its place, Angelican Christianity to the faith. In closing, the speaker said that ty to the faith. In closing, the speaker said that yeople went to church not to hear preaching, but to worship God, and in the presentation of every act of Divine worship there's should be reverence
and everything that can add dignity and solemnity
to the scene.

Sutt Against a Baitrond Company. THE PURITAN REFORMATION, Suit Against a Bailroad Company.

Saturday Patrick Hassett, by his next friend, Bridget Hassett, entered a suit against the Baltimore and Ohio Raliroad Company, claiming $20,000 damages. The bill sets forth that on the 4th day of October, 1889, the plaintiff, a child thirteen years of age, was on the platform of a passenger car, coming from Ivy City to this city, and while the train was moving at rapid speed he was struck with a stick, in the hands of an employed of the road, with such force as to throw him upon a rail of the track. One of the own wheels passed over his leg, crushing it so badly that amputation was necessing all the knee, and subsequently a second, amputation was performed. In consequence of this act the plaintiff has been unable to render any assistance to his mother, and the company is sued to recover for the injuries inflicted. tth day of October, 1880, the plaintiff, a child thir-
